DepEd introduces PhilSys to student-leaders, aims to amplify the National ID campaign

May 6, 2021 - Committed to providing learners better public services and opportunities, the Department of Education (DepEd) spearheaded the National Orientation on the Philippine Identification System (PhilSys) for Student Government Officers last Tuesday.

"We are engaging our youth leaders in our National ID program to provide them better knowledge on its benefits, which includes having wider access to education and public services," Secretary Leonor Magtolis Briones said.

Hosted by the Bureau of Learner Support Services-Youth Formation Division (BLSS-YFD), representatives from the Department of Finance (DOF) and the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) explained the benefits and features of PhilSys to around 170 student-leaders nationwide during the orientation.

"The introduction for the national campaign for the Philippine Identification System is very important. It is an introduction of centralized national ID system that brings with it a handful of advantages and benefits that the Filipino people can avail and enjoy," BLSS-YFD Chief Adolf Aguilar said.

The PhilSys will provide the youth and Filipinos easier access to services like opening bank accounts, facilitating online payments, and social protection programs, healthcare, and education services.

The Department then urged student-leaders to help the government explain to their fellow youth the benefits of the National ID system.

"Why the youth? Because the youth, using your puso, galing, at talino, we can mobilize and raise awareness for the importance of national ID system ten folds. This is a step towards our goals and achieve a Makabagong Pilipinas. And with your help, we're surely able to live in nation where no one gets left behind," he added.

As steps to raise awareness on the PhilSys campaign, youth leaders are encouraged to share testimonials and experiences in registering for PhilSys, and sharing informational materials posted on the official PSA PhilSys Facebook Page.

"As our youth are digital natives who are adept in navigating online tools, we saw this opportunity to bring our student leaders at the forefront for the national campaign for Philippine Identification System that will help their fellow youth and Filipinos to access public services," Secretary Briones said.
