CALL FOR PAPERS

3rd Annual Intramuros Young Scholars Conference

The Center for Intramuros Studies of the Intramuros Administration is calling for submissions of papers for the 3rd Annual Intramuros Young Scholars Conference (YSC) in December 2021. This conference is open to all emerging professionals 30 years old and below.

Theme: Intramuros: A Living City

Deadline of submission of papers: 01 November 2021;
Announcement of shortlisted papers/finalists: 05 November 2020;
Conference dates: 9-10 December 2021.

Intramuros' place in history is cemented by its heritage as one of the world's first globalized cities in the Modern Era. However, beyond the pomp and grandeur is a city with ordinary people. While literature on the sublimity of Intramuros is countless, not much narrative about the everyday lives of its people exists. As such, the 3rd Annual Young Scholars Conference will be a celebration of both the grand and the mundane—a discussion on everyday life, way of living, communities, and peoples in Intramuros.

The Conference, which will run for two days, will serve as a venue where emerging professionals with interest on cultural heritage can share their studies on Intramuros and its heritage as a living city. It will feature a total of six research papers in the span of two days, and shall be entirely staged via online means. The conference shall be open to the public free of charge, and everyone invited to attend and participate.
