LEARNING CONTINUITY DURING DISASTERS/EMERGENCIES

To: Schools Division Superintendents
 Curriculum Implementation Division Chiefs
 Division Education Program Supervisors
 Public Schools Division Supervisors
 Elementary and Secondary School Principals

1. In DepEd Order No. 21, s. 2025, disaster is defined as "natural or man-made emergencies that could not be handled by affected communities who experience severe danger and incur loss of lives and properties causing disruption in its social structure and prevention of the fulfillment of all or some of the affected communities' essential function."
2. Disasters may include typhoons, floods, earthquakes, tsunamis, volcanic eruptions, conflagration, and others which are all considered natural emergencies, while chemical spills, transportation accidents, mining accidents, warfare, genocide, civil unrest, hyperinflation, terrorism, and deforestation that result to landslides are examples of man-made disasters.
3. The Philippines is susceptible to natural disasters due to its location. Its geographical features make it prone to tropical cyclones. When disasters like floods, storms, and others occur in the different parts of the country, one of the unavoidable consequences is disruption of classes.
4. However, the schools are responsible to ensure that learning continues even during disasters/emergencies. In such cases, printed or digital self-learning modules, Radio-based Instruction, TV-based instruction, and /or online distance learning which has been proven to support distance teaching-learning shall be used whichever is possible and available.
5. In the case where disruption of classes is for a long period of time and the learners are in the evacuation center, the School Head shall identify teachers nearby the evacuation area or who are also evacuated and organize classes for the affected learners. While in the evacuation facility, Psychosocial First Aid may also be provided by the SDO/ School to the learners and even to the teachers.

6. School property custodian shall always make an inventory and safe keep all learning materials used in distance learning and make these available during emergencies.
7. The Schools Division Superintendents through the Division and District Supervisors shall ensure that learning continues even during disasters/emergencies. Likewise, school heads and teachers concerned shall regularly monitor their learners' activities.
8. SDOs Monitoring Reports shall be submitted to the Regional Office through the Curriculum and Learning Management Division as to how the affected schools are implementing the learning modality using the template attached. Regular submission shall be done while the schools cannot still be used for in-person classes, or when it is impossible for the learners/learner to attend classes due to emergencies.
9. Immediate and wide dissemination of and compliance with this Memorandum are enjoined.
