The incident will make the parents furious. Her sacrifices are outweighed only by hatred of the Aetas elders. That event will also lead Divina to a disciplinary action by her superior. Divina will be suspended and will not able to teach her students anymore. Despite her entreaties, she will not be allowed to continue her classes.

In the midst of her grief, she will be stricken by Malaria. The disease will claim her life despite the efforts of Diko and Aling Tessie to make Divina treated by the native healer. Toto's heart will be crushed. Suddenly he will lose someone who has become a part of his life and his classmates. Someone he almost considered as his second mother.

But a good aspiration will never die. Toto continues to study and learned to dream with his classmates.
